

ONCIDIUM

Commonly called dancing ladies. Wider distributed throughout tropical America to southern Brazil, there are many cultural types and blooming periods run throughout the year. Most oncidium flowers come in yellow and brown shades. While miniature, equitant types can be any colour. Most Oncidiums will grow under 50-70% shade. Good air movement and high humidity is essential. Some can be grown on cork slab while others prefer to be grown in a pot with a bark mix. Water Oncidiums abundantly in the growing and flowering season. Water early in the morning to allow the potting mix to dry out before nightfall as the fine roots will rot if the mix is too wet. Fertilize weekly when growing.
